

What's the Meaning of This?!

Read the Book!

A hand-chiseled stone carving of a man with the head of a donkey, wearing a tuxedo, a bow-tie and tails, standing atop the Law School roof at Yale University...

Who could have thought of such a seemingly bizarre idea?

For the first time, an entire book is devoted to explaining, in detail, why literally dozens of unusual stone figures adorn several of Yale's Gothic style campus buildings. How many people really know about Yale's "satirical" stone carvings appearing throughout the campus and what do they know?

Through extensive research, this new and intriguing 132 page book will answer these questions while displaying 160 dynamic photographs of these masterful stone sculptures from a bygone era of stone masonry.

The book, "Yale's Hidden Treasures: Mystery of the Gothic Stone Carvings," is available at a special introductory price of $34. Save money by ordering this book directly from the printer at www.yaleshiddentreasures.com.
